“Syria is the biggest humanitarian and refugee crisis of our time, a continuing cause of suffering for millions which should be garnering a groundswell of support around the world.” Filippo Grandi, UNHCR High Commissioner

After six years of war, Syrian refugees are struggling to survive. Many are living well below the poverty line, unable to feed their children properly or continue their education. The United Nations High Commissioner for Refugees (UNHCR) works hard to help by leading a coordinated effort across the region together with partners, NGOs and host governments, offering a lifeline to those in need. They are critically short on funds to respond and need our help, now more than ever!

- Registered Syrian Refugees by UNHCR: 5,437,603
- Over 5.4 million people have fled Syria since 2011, seeking safety in Lebanon, Turkey, Jordan and beyond
- Over 3 million registered in Turkey, over 1.1 million in Lebanon, and 655,000 in Jordan
- 13.1 million people are still in need inside Syria; 6.1 million internally displaced and 2.98 million in hard-to-reach and besieged areas.
